LOCALITY

Sisters Beach is located on Tasmania's remote, north-west coast and is surrounded by the Rocky Cape National Park. It is the perfect getaway for those seeking a quiet, relaxing break in the midst of Tasmania's famous, natural beauty. The Rocky Cape National Park offers many opportunities to enjoy the serenity; the Rocky Cape Lighthouse being just one.

Among the natural wonders surrounding Sisters Beach is the world famous Cradle Mountain, just an hour-and-a-half from the home. While, an hour-and-a-half in the opposite direction is the Tarkine. Not only is this Australia's largest rainforest, but it is also thought to have the greatest concentration of Aboriginal sites in the country. Indeed the name Tarkine is derived from the Tarkiner Aboriginals who once lived in the area.

For a change of pace, the small towns dotted throughout the north-west are delightful. Penguin to the east is a must to visit on a Sunday, when the Markets are held. These are the largest undercover markets in Tasmania. To the west is Stanley, a seaside fishing town, famous for the iconic "Nut". A chairlift ride can be taken to the top.
